Happy Halloween

Wondering what events are still happening in the area for Halloween this year? Click the headlines to find out more!

Art Saves Me Covid House of Horrors: Part haunted house and part art exhibit, this experience sounds kind of like exposure therapy, as it highlights installations by artists like Seattle Design Nerds, Totally Legit, Kerstin Gaudins, Paul Nunn, Simon Shaw, Wyly Astley, Vic Deleon, and Angie Hinojos Yusuf with Carlos Jimenez that bring our worst nightmare to life in the context of the current nightmare of 2020.

Stalker Farms: Drive-Thru Haunted Attractions: Ghouls of Snohomish are back in the habit of lurking in ye olde haunted corn trails. Rather than completing the maze on foot, you'll at least get to cower in the safety of your car as the lot of them jump out at you at this drive-in edition. Be sure to book your spot online first. They also have a "no scare" on-foot version that includes unlimited use of the Ball Zone, Konk the Crow, Wall Ball, Roller Bowler, Farmer Foosball, and one apple to use at Billy Bob's Blaster Alley.

Rather Stay Home? Check out Hocum Pokem: The Return of the Manderson Sisters. Peaches Christ Productions is joining this year's Halloween season with a can't-miss production of Hocum Pokem! Once you purchase your ticket, you will get an email and text message with your link to watch at showtime!

We are proud and lucky to be able to welcome new tenants to the property during these unprecedented times. Check out our new additions on page 2!
